Professional Expertise

Tom is an experienced executive and team coach with over two decades leading change in the technology field. He partners with senior executives and leadership teams to grow capabilities to deal with challenges, creatively lead amidst complex and uncertain situations and achieve significant outcomes.

Clients appreciate how his “keen intuition and astute observations create a safe space for reflection, growth, critical thinking, and problem solving” enabling them to generate “fresh perspectives, realize new possibilities, and connect the dots to grow personally” while growing their teams and organizations. “My experience with Tom has changed the way I lead.” “He was a fabulous coach who opened my eyes to many approaches.”

Tom’s pragmatic coaching is grounded in his extensive education and continual learning in contemporary, evidence-based methods in leadership, change management, executive and team coaching and growing businesses.

“Tom is one of the best strategic thinkers that I have ever worked with... What really separates Tom, is his ability to see and then realize that vision from inception to execution and results.”
